Purchase of Alternate Color Referee Jersey: Recommended Order of Purchase

With the advent of the new referee jersey design in November 2007, referees will be looking to purchase (over the course of the next couple of years) alternate color referee jerseys. While gold is still the first color choice, the question of which color jersey should be bought next becomes an issue.

To help simplify, and coordinate the process for our local Davis Referees, the referee administrative branches of both Davis AYSO and Davis Legacy have come up with the following “recommended” order of purchasing alternate color referee jerseys. While it will take years for most referees to purchase all 4 of the new design alternate color referee jerseys, if we purchase in this recommended order, we increase our chances of being able to have our full referee team match in color and design, sooner rather than later, whether you referee Davis AYSO and/or Davis Legacy games. And, as we all know, having the referee team wearing matching referee jerseys of both color and design projects a more professional image to both players and spectators.

Reminder: This list only suggests an order for purchasing new jerseys, not for deciding which color jersey to wear for your game. The choice of which jersey color to wear at a particular game remains in the hands of the Referee.

Recommended Purchasing Order:

Following the Gold Jersey (Note: Gold is still the primary color), the alternate referee jersey colors and the suggested order of purchase are:

1. Black
2. Blue
3. Red
4. Green
